THE LITTLE NELL RESIDENCES Aspen, Colorado

Aspen's only five-star, five-diamond ski-in/ski-out hotel doesn't skimp on amenities. Think gourmet kitchens, private decks, a ski concierge, and a wine cellar to rival your sommelier's. The newly renovated residences are located in their own building near the main hotel and offer up to 4,000 square feet—because why rough it?

From $2,299 per night, thelittlenell.com

SÃO LOURENÇO DO BARROCAL Alentejo, Portugal

Once a working farm, this family-friendly luxury estate offers bee garden tours, olive oil tastings, and kid-approved veggie patch classes. It's agritourism with plush linens and a sommelier on call.

From $9,167 for five nights in a two-bedroom cottage, barrocal.pt

65 HARLEY BY LIVING ROOMS London, United Kingdom

This new Marylebone gem blends historic architecture with bold, curated interiors. Guests enjoy full kitchens, 24-hour concierge service, housekeeping, and access to private chefs. Bonus: You can walk to Selfridges in about 10 minutes. From $460 per night, living-rooms.co.uk ■

STAY A WHILE

These luxe hotels are designed for longer, more comfortable stays, allowing you to truly settle in.

By Laura Corrigan O'Connell

In a world that moves fast, luxury travelers are embracing longer stays—and these five high-end hotels are answering the call with stylish, service-driven residences designed for lingering. From Aspen to Alentejo, these properties offer a home-away-from-home feel—with better linens, more space, and, in some cases, even your own butler.
