

SPRING SUMMER AUTUMN WINTER

*Copenhagen
- in four acts*

by Alexander Kølpin

Once you do venture outside these pages hold a collection of my favourite hidden gems and quiet corners of Copenhagen. They range from the traditional and unique to the quirky and trendy. Although I have lived and danced in a number of the world's greatest cities, Copenhagen will always be my home.

Warm regards,

Alexander Kølpin,

Spring

Spring is perhaps my favourite season in Copenhagen. The transformation is wonderful. The sunshine and people return to the streets and parks and the cherry trees in bloom can soften even the coldest winter heart.

It's the perfect time to explore

Summer

Nothing beats summer in Copenhagen. The endless summer nights, quick dips in the harbour and cultural festivals make the city come alive with people, colours and music. Let us guide you to the nearest canal, boat rental or harbour side wine bar. Forget about cars and jump on one of our bikes like

Glyptoteket Palm Garden – for an autumn afternoon

Autumn

When autumn arrives it's time to get cosy indoors. As you probably all know by now, the Danes are world experts in 'hygge', and with the help of a few foreign friends we'll do our best to get you settled into

Winter

The air is crisp, Christmas lights are shimmering, the city's squares are transformed into ice-skating rinks, and if you're lucky, you'll get to see the city covered in snow. Winter seems to shroud Copenhagen in magic. You can even see soldiers changing the guard just like a real scene from a Hans Christian Andersen fairytale.

This is just a sneak peek...
