DANISH LUXURY IS ON POINTE

WILD WYE, REMOTEST SPAIN AND A
TASTE OF COPENHAGEN CHIC

BY LISA SCOTT

The new 54-room hotel from former Danish Royal Ballet dancer and filmmaker Alexander Kølpin will be like ‘stepping into a theatre’. Sanders, which opens on November 1 behind Copenhagen’s Royal Danish Theatre, called on London’s Lind + Almond studio to create an old-world mix of polished floors, gold velvet chairs and rattan-cane sofas. Its gem, though, is the covered courtyard filled with blankets and wood burners for the autumn ahead. From £316 per night, hotelsanders.com
